HERE'S the POINT

By SPENCE HELD

This is an age of pressure groups in everything from football to politics, and I've got a suggestion for Al Bahr Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and its 4,000 members.

They might use their influence with the people staging the annual East-West Shrine football game in San Francisco to have a San Diego State College player selected for the West team in the upcoming game.

You think none of them are good enough for that all-star team? Don't be silly. Norman Nygaard, senior fullback, has been drafted by the professional L. A. Rams, and several Linemen Anonymous probably could hold their own against the best.

* * *

State College has played in 10 of the 17 Shrine Charity Football Games staged in San Diego since 1936. These have netted about $500,000 for the Shrine hospitals for crippled children.

Back in the 1920's, Al Scheving played a couple years at State and then transferred to USC, where he performed two or three years and then was picked for the Shrine East-West game.

Other San Diego stars have played in the San Francisco game after football careers at Pacific Coast Conference colleges, but none has been picked from State College.

How about it, Al Bahr?

* * *

Speaking of football, the New Yorker magazine gives it a "literary" flavor in restrained reviews of eastern games and I find some of them fairly funny.

For instance: "Up at West Point, Army had a perfectly terrible time beating Virginia."

Goodness gracious, Agnes!

Describing the 'match" between Yale and Dartmouth, the New Yorker's football expert reported that Yale 'caught fire, as the expression is, and there was no stopping it, even though Dartmouth made some very convincing tries."

Nuts, as the expression is.

* * *

Reminds me of the story I once heard about a Harvard yell-leader, (We used to call 'em yell-leaders in my day—I don't go for this 'cheer-leader" stuff.)

Anyhow, this dignified fellow stood out in front of his "cheering" section and exhorted the team as follows:

"Fiehcely, Havahd, fiehcely!"

* * *

Well, I see where my Alma Tomato, the Tribune, had a Page One Story Nov. 25 headlined: SMOG CALLED PRICE OF URBAN GROWTH.

The story, ably written by the Last of the Mohicans, Art Ribbel (last of the reporters I worked with there), stated that "Los Angeles knows today that it is paying a penalty for the influx of millions of persons and countless industrial plants. One of these penalties is smog, the killer of the skies, a Frankenstein monster created by man."

That's the first locally-written story published in a San Diego daily newspaper in at least 25 years, as far as I know, that admitted the fact that growth of industry and population is not necessarily a good thing.

(On Nov. 4, this column had viewed Los Angeles with alarm and pointed out that "San Diego is heading the same way.")

* * *

Here's another quote from that Nov. 25 Tribune story: 'Experts of the L. A. pollution control district found vehicle traffic about as intense in San Diego as in L. A., although not as widespread. Traffic was accused of being the No. 1 smog contributor in San Diego."

That apparently confirms my independent research from atop Point Loma. In last week's Peninsula News (Nov. 25, coincidentally) this column described a low lying white band of early-morning mist across the bay which "slowly turned a dirty brown color as thousands of cars, spewing exhaust fumes, converged on the downtown district from all directions."

Nothing like blowing your own smoghorn, huh?

ALL ABOARD!

Several teachers on the Cabrillo School staff are making plans for travel during the forthcoming Christmas vacation. Longest trips are planned by Mrs. June Prigan and Miss Wanda Neeley, who will visit their parents in Ohio. Miss Debbie Haven has made plane reservations and will spend the holidays with her relatives in Minnesota.

A closer holiday destination is planned by Miss Finley, who will be with relatives in Los Angeles. A brief visit in the smoggy city is also planned by Mrs. Mary Jane Huff, second grade teacher.

A classified ad is the cheapest form of advertising there is—considering the returns.

Army Engineers Favor Construction of Groin

Tom Drake, chairman of the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce Beach Improvement Committee, conferred Friday with Army engineers in Los Angeles and "got the impression they would recommend construction of a rock groin to prevent beach erosion here."

He met with Col. Arthur H. Frye Jr., and others after the Army Corps of Engineers had rejected the low bid of $661,980 for the Mission Bay Channel dredging project. The bid, submitted by the Standard Dredging Co., of Los Angeles, was rejected as too high.

Plans call for pumping the dredged material onto the local beach. Actual construction of a rock groin "would be up to the City of San Diego," Drake said.

The Army Corps of Engineers will re-advertise for bids on the dredging job and Drake said it probably would be late in January before the work is started.

"We discussed the two possibilities for preventing beach erosion here," he said. "These are extension of the south jetty or construction of a rock groin. I got the impression the Army engineers would recommend the groin.

"Their report on local beach erosion will be submitted to the Federal Beach Erosion Board in Washington, D. C., within two or three weeks, but probably won't be acted upon before February. However, Col. Frye thinks the Board would release its recommendations before the complete report is released, and I plan to ask the City to request that this be done."

Glenn Rick, City planning director, told the O. B. Chamber of Commerce recently that a rock groin would cost the City from $40,000 to $50,000.

Postmaster Has A Few More Words On Mail

Postmaster William E. Krenning believes that with a three-cent stamp your Christmas cards will win more friends and influence more people than if they are mailed with a two-cent stamp.

"First-class postage," he explained yesterday, "is the best Yuletide insurance you can get. With it your greetings will be procesed and delivered quicker. And they'll be forwarded, or returned, if it becomes necessary.

"This eliminates any worry about whether or not your season's greetings were received. Your own return address on the envelope will help others keep their address books up to date. Then, too, Christmas cards sent with three-cent stamps may carry written messages, a custom everyone enjoys."

None of these postal privileges are authorized at the third-class rates. Moreover, Christmas card envelopes smaller than 2¾"x4" or larger than 9"x12" require cancellation by hand, and must carry first-class postage.

"Penny Wise and—"

"Because of all these reasons," the Postmaster added, "it's important not to be 'penny wise and pound foolish' where Christmas cards are concerned. Most people realize this, evidently, for the volume of first-class and air mail stamps being sold has increased."

Equally important is the necessity for early mailing. Christmas cards addressed outside the state should be mailed by December 15. Local delivery requires mailing at least a week before Christmas.

Postmaster Krenning urges everyone to tie his Christmas cards in two separate bundles, with each address facing the same way. Then attach the postal labels marked "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY' 'and 'ALL FOR OUT-OF-TOWN DELIVERY." These helpful tags are available at the Post Office, without cost, and will shorten delivery time greatly.

Parcel post, of course, should be mailed even earlier. The Postmaster recommends December 5 for out-of-state gifts, and December 10 for those with local addresses. But the sooner the better.

LOCAL ANGLERS CATCH PLENTY OF YELLOWTAIL

Judging from development this week, there seems little doubt that yellowtail fishing off San Diego, for years believed to be strictly a summer pastime, has become a year-around sport.

Rock cod boats, working the Rock Pile, a kelp covered area 30 minutes below South Coronado Island, discovered a heavy concentration of yellowtail and bonito there, and surface fishing boats were quick to take advantage of the situation. As a result, daily yellowtail takes by two or three boats on hand jumped to somewhere around the 150 mark, plus three or four times that many bonito.

The 6 a.m. departure time of the yellowtail boats also proved ideal, as most of the yellowtail action took place in mid-morning.

Lee Wong, Los Angeles angler who won one of the automobiles last summer in the Yellowtail Derby fishoffs, took eight yellows and six or seven bonito last Friday, but his exceptional catch was equaled by a 16-year-old Point Loma boy, Bobby Beyrer.

Other Point Loma-Ocean Beach area anglers who did well on the yellows included: Bob Williams, W. E. Allen, L. E. Sherman, V. D. Daniels, Robert Stockley, O. F. Meyers.

Catches of bottom fishermen also were above average, with red cod, ling, and groupers predominating.

Diagonal or Parallel Parking On Newport?

Fifty-five accidents have occurred since Jan. 1, 1952, on Newport Ave., between Abbott St. and Sunset Cliffs Blvd., including accidents at the four intersections involved.

That report was received this week by the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce from James E. Reading, City traffic engineer.

It was transmitted by O. K. Cope, assistant to the city manager, who replied to a request made by the O. B. Chamber in October for an open hearing to determine whether or not diagonal parking on the 4800 through 5000 blocks of Newport Ave. should be terminated.

Cope said that polls taken previously of merchants fronting on Newport indicated that the majority were in favor of retaining diagonal parking.

"I do not believe," he added, "that this problem is of sufficient city-wide interest to necessitate a public hearing in Council meeting. I might suggest, however, that the City traffic engineer attend a meeting of the Ocean Beach Chamber to discuss the pros and cons with the membership and other interested parties.

"If the results of this meeting indicate that the changeover (to parallel parking) is desirable and the majority of the affected business people are in favor of it, we will be pleased to take whatever action is necessary to effect the change."

Traffic Engineer Reading reported that "accident statistics from a reliable source show that a 60 percent reduction in accidents may be expected when changing from diagonal to parallel parking on a thoroughfare."

(He said that 37 of the 55 accidents on Newport involved parked, parking, or unparking vehicles.)

There are now 228 diagonal parking stalls on Newport Ave., between Abbott St.. and Sunset Cliffs Blvd., Reading said. A change to parallel parking would reduce the total to 146 stalls.

Reading said, however, that parallel parking plus parking meters "would provide an increased rate of curb turnover."

PORCH-LIGHT—Fireman H. C. Harmelink is pointing at the light and explaining the "Firemen's March" next Wednesday and Thursday to Sandra Forshey, 4511 Santa Monica Ave. Householders are asked to turn on their porch-lights if they wish to contribute to the fight against muscular dystrophy.—L. G. Cook photo.

Local Firemen To March For Dystrophy Victims

Off-duty firemen in the Peninsula area will take part in a city-wide "Firemen's Drive Against Muscular Dystrophy" next Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Dec. 8-9.

It will be a "porch-light" campaign, like the one conducted by postmen last year.

A. E. Derrick of 4821 Niagara Ave., president of Local 145, International Association of Firefighters, is chairman of the San Diego drive. The Firefighters voted unanimously at their convention in Miami last August to spearhead the annual appeal by the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc.

H. C. Harmelink, of 1865 Capistrano St., a fireman at Station 22, on Catalina Blvd., was a delegate to that convention, is a member of the committee set up by Local 145 to stage the "Firemen's March" next week.

Before then, each householder will receive through the mail a pamphlet and an envelope. The pamphlet will provide information on muscular dystrophy, a chronic disease of the muscles. Over a period of years it is manifested by gradual weakening of the voluntary muscles until the patient is confined to a wheelchair and eventually to his bed.

Authorities say there are about 200,000 persons in the U.S. suffering from this non-contagious disease. More than half are children between three and 13.

Peninsula residents who desire to help the campaign against muscular dystrophy are asked to place contributions in the envelopes and turn on their porch-lights Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Dec. 8-9, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Firemen will stop where porch-lights are burning and pick up the envelopes.

In the Peninsula area, two fire stations are participating—Station 15 on Voltaire St., and Station 22. About 20 off-duty firemen will take part in the [illegible] trophy" here. Members of the Naval Training Center and MCRD fire departments will assist throughout the city.

The Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., has allocated about a million dollars for research into all phases of the crippling disease.

Also, the MDAA program includes experimental therapy treatment of patients, rehabilitation, and other help to sufferers of the disease.

S. D. COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TO STRESS RELIGIOUS THEME

Numerous individuals and organizations are cooperating with the San Diego Chamber of Commerce in planning for the annual Community Christmas Center at Balboa Park. Major event will take place Sunday, Dec. 12, at 4:30 p.m., when lights on a community Christmas tree and elaborate decorations throughout the park will be lighted.

Dr. Frank Lowe is serving as chairman of a special Chamber committee planning Christmas features at Balboa Park which should attract thousands of local residents and tourists. Jack Thompson is vice chairman of the group.

Already working on decorations at the Park and at the Civic Center are workmen supervised by Albert Gabbs, Leo Calland and William Roberts.

Music Program

Dr. Alex Zimmerman of the music department of city schools has prepared a program to be staged at the Balboa Park organ pavilion, Dec. 12, which will include 325 junior high school students in singing of favorite Christmas songs.

Miss Maria Fielding of the city's Park and Recreation Department, is rounding out a program of ballet and dancing to be staged at the organ pavilion Sunday afternoon, Dec. 19, starting at 5 p.m.

Among others who are assisting with the program is J. Clark Chamberlain of the Bureau of Home Appliances, which has completed an attractive Christmas Tree Lane on Laurel St., extending from Park Blvd. to Sixth Ave.

Others on the committee are Mrs. Frank Marcy, president of the Fine Arts Society, and Robert McCuen, Junior Chamber of Commerce representative. The Fine Arts Gallery will be decorated this year as a new feature of Community Christmas Center.

A 50-foot Christmas tree, with gay ornaments and lights; two life-sized nativity scenes, 12-foot wreaths with 8-foot lighted candles and a large, animated gift box for the collection of gifts for children of needy families will be attractive scenes in the organ pavilion area. As an added attraction this year a train of reindeer, with Santa Claus riding in the sleigh, is planned in the pavilion parking area.

Stars of Bethelehem

Also planned by the Chamber committee are two 40-foot Stars of Bethlehem on the east and west walls of the Civic Center tower, each to be illuminated at night. Lettering spelling out Merry Christmas will be on the north and south sides of the tower and at night these will glow with more than 400 electric bulbs providing illumination.

The Chamber's Community Christmas Center program is receiving active support of the Civic Center, the Bureau of Home Appliances and the Harbor Department. The latter department wil be in charge of transportation. The program has been supported by contributions of San Diego business firms.

Chairman Dr. Lowe points out that the religious theme will be stressed in each phase of the program. There will be no commercial phases of the program, he says.

Gifts which are donated will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

BIRTHDAY MEETING MON.

The Ocean Beach Friendly Club will hold their Birthday Meeting on Monday for those having anniversaries in November and December. Members are urged to take a lunch and table service.

Children Invited To Free Movies At Local Theatre

Free movies for children under 14 years of age!

That's the announcement this week by Ocean Beach business and professional men. They invite all youngsters under 14 to be their guests at the Strand Theatre Monday, Dec. 20, through Friday, Dec. 24, while parents are doing their Christmas shopping in Ocean Beach.

This second annual Christmas party is sponsored this year by the Ocean Beach Kiwanis Club.

Specially selected children's movies will be shown at the Strand Dec. 20-24. The cost will be defrayed by local merchants.

Meanwhile, most stores in Ocean Beach will remain open evenings during the Yuletide shopping season, beginning this week and continuing through Dec. 24.

Taxi Rates Here Are Clarified

The A.B.C. Cab Company, of Ocean Beach, in a statement issued by P. Black, this week explained taxicab rates for the city of San Diego.

Black pointed out that "the legal taxicab rates are passed by the City Council and enforced by the Police Department. The present legal rate as per taxicab meter is 40 cents for the first 1/3 mile—this is the minimum 'flag throw'—and 10 cents for each additional 1/3 mile. Waiting time is $3 per hour and also is recorded on the taxi meter.

"All taxicab companies in the city have the same rates as the above—to charge a higher or lower rate is illegal. If you know of any company that is charging a higher or lower rate you should report the matter to the Police Department. We would appreciate it being brought to our attention also."

Local Seal-Sale Leaders Launch Campaign Here

With the annual fund-raising drive of the San Diego County Tuberculosis and Health Association swinging into its fourth week next Monday, Mrs. Carl R. Anderson, Christmas Seal Chairman, today announced the start of local campaign efforts.

Teams of two or more women, working out of Christmas Seal Headquarters, will place "self-seller" counter cards in stores and businesses throughout the local business district.

"Through the self-seller displays, the Seals will be made available to persons who didn't receive them through the mail," Mrs. Anderson said. "No door-to-door campaign will be done."

Year-round Fight

She said the Seals are sold only on a voluntary basis and provide funds for a year-round fight against the disease that killed one American every 21 minutes last year—in spite of the fact that it can be cured today.

Other stores in this area will be contacted to put up window displays, posters, and decorations based on the Christmas Seal.

Earlier this week, it was estimated at Christmas Seal headquarters that returns for San Diego County would top $50,000 by this weekend. The county goal is $124,000.

Christmas Seal dispensers will also be placed in post offices for persons needing last minute Seals for cards and packages.

Meanwhile, Seal headquarters issued an urgent call for volunteers to help at the offices, 3861 Front St., during the evenings until 10 p.m.

T. & A. Frostie Has New Owner

The T. & A. Frostie, 3155 Midway Dr., is under new management, it was announced this week.

Jim Knipe, the new owner, has returned to San Diego after 15 years in the east. He resides in La Jolla, his former home. He is experienced in the ice cream business.

The T. & A. Frostie will feature a new service—catering for all occasions, with delivery service.

Admiral Sherman Fires Salvo In Park Battle

Navy opposition to plans for making a park out of the Ft. Rosecrans military reservation on Point Loma this week drew the fire of Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, USN, ret.

'I doubt," he said, "that the view expressed by the spokesman for the 11th Naval District represents top-level thinking in Washington."

The City Planning Commission has recommended that the City Council take action to acquire the area south of the Ft. Rosecrans National Cemetary for a public park. On Tuesday, the Council decided to discuss the matter in conference next week.

Capt. H. F. Stout, USN, speaking for Rear Adm. George C. Dyer, 11th Naval District commandant, said the Navy has definite plans for using the acreage.

Security reasons would require the military services to keep the public some distance away from installations that may be placed there, he added.

However, Adm. Sherman, who distinguished himself in combat during World War II, said he didn't think the Navy could use a "top secret" classification for projects it may be planning for this area.

"It should be remembered," he said, "that the Army and Navy both opposed the building of bridges across San Francisco Bay but the people of San Francisco went to Congress and got their bridges."

Adm. Sherman has proposed that Congress be asked to create a joint park commission, with the Federal Government and some State or local body administering the suggested scenic park.

Meanwhile, Rep. Bob Wilson plans to hold a meeting at Civic Center tomorrow (Friday) to discuss efforts to acquire additional acreage for expansion of Cabrillo National Monument on Point Loma.

O. B. KIWANIS TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Grand Opening December 11th For Paras Shop

The beautiful new Paras Shop plans to hold their Grand Opening on December 11th. Stratie and Chris Paras for the past two years owners of the magazine store at 4861 Newport Avenue, temporarily held forth in Steve Sulek's Do-Nut Shop while the new store was created on the site of their former store. The building, owned by Mr. Willis LeJune is a 25x100 concrete block building.

The brothers will carry the biggest line of magazines and small books in the Peninsula area. They will also have a large selection of all kinds of greeting cards.

In the extreme rear of the store the boys will manufacture their own candies and ice cream. This department is also expected to be operating for the grand opening.

FISHERMEN SET RECORD

California sport fishermen caught an estimated forty-four million fish in inland waters during 1953 to break all previous records, according to the National Automobile Club. Trout made up approximately fifty per cent of the catch.

United Success Drive Exceeds 92 Percent

Marked by renewed efforts of campaigners in all divisions, the Second United Success Drive this week moved ahead to $1,265,901 for 92.4 percent of the $1,370,000 goal.

In the Peninsula area the total was $12,962—64.8 percent of the goal of $20,000.

Mrs. Robert Gordon, Peninsula area chairman appealed directly to the community to "stand up and be counted in an effort which is vital to this [illegible]."

Businesses and residents who have not yet been contacted, or who want to reconsider their contribution and give an additional amount to help meet the goal, are asked to send checks or pledges directly to headquarters at box 2671, San Diego 12.

"The campaign last year was the first major success in the San Diego area in many years," she pointed out. "There is too much at stake for us to miss the goal this year. We have to do everything we can to give this community its second success in two years.

All Red Feather hospitals, clinics, children's homes, family services and youth agencies depend on the single annual appeal for funds.

O. B. Kiwaniannes To Hold Christmas Party Tues., Dec. 7

Let us pause and be thankful this year. The shooting war has ceased, and it's quiet on the Korean Front.

Careful Handling Of Small Children

A recent article entitled "Handle Me Easy, Daddy," by Dr. F. Lee Lemly, enumerates common faults of parents in handling small children. He says that pulling a child along by one hand or walking in between two adults ,especially if one is taller than the other may cause injury. Throwing a child in the air and catching it; or carrying a sleeping youngster and not properly supporting its head and back are also dangerous practices. Dr. Lemly discourages cuffing a child on the side of the head or pushing him over rough places in his walker. All of these practices are dangerous as they injure the spine and nerves and may be laying the foundation for future trouble such as weak eyes, mastoid trouble, enlarged tonsils, rheumatism, constipation, St. Vitus dance, infantile paralysis, and other disorders.

The chiropractor adjusts the spine to correct spinal injuries allowing normal nerve function and natural healing.
